"Many thanks for your help again – you're a star!"

Jonathan Richards, Financial Director (Precision Peripherals Ltd).

"Working with E247 was a rewarding experience. What particularly impressed me was their flexible approach to web design. Instead of giving them a static brief, we worked closely together to create a website that matched my needs. E247 were never unwilling to incorporate my latest designs, pictures and suggestions. I was absolutely delighted when I saw the Flash Presentation for the first time. It neatly encapsulates what Precision Peripherals Ltd is about in a very elegant and classy format. This isn't very easy to do for a printer repair company! However, the best part is the feedback that I get from our customers who tell me what a massive improvement it is on our old website."

Rob Garnham, Mediation In Planning.

"I still continue to extol the virtues of E247 to others and your service over the past few days shows the value of paying for a really good service."

Helen Neatherway, Marketing Manager (Kenwood Limited).

"E247 provided an interactive CD ROM development service for Kenwood on a new kitchen machine. The project was quite complex due to the combination of media formats and the number of languages. They were successful at guiding us through a process we had little experience of and delivered the product within some challenging time constraints. We are very proud of the joint achievement, as this was Kenwood's first ever 90 page interactive recipe CD ROM in 12 languages."

Doug Miles, Managing Director (AIIM Europe).

"I have had some astoundingly good service from E247 – one specific programming issue with a legacy website I reported with no pre-notice at 18:30 one evening and it was resolved by 10:15 the following morning."

Matt Hatcher, IT Manager (The Paper House Group PLC).

"We would not hesitate in recommending E247 to anyone seeking a professional website design, maintenance & hosting solution. After preliminary discussions, E247 returned to us with several viable designs for our site and we felt they had really understood Paper House and our needs. We were continually impressed with E247's close working relationship, access to the project manager, and their ability to understand what we were trying to accomplish. The technical expertise they provided, in the key areas of database development and coding, was second to none."

Tony Briscombe, Managing Director (Grafx Digital Technologies Ltd).

"I have been working with E247 for a number of years and they have always assisted me and provided the guidance required, allowing me to take my company forward on the Web. For me, a good supplier provides me with confidence to delegate responsibility in areas in which I struggle, and with E247, they provide that peace of mind."

Andrew Gray, Product Development (Lyndon Design Ltd).

"We have worked with E247 for almost two years now. From the outset they have been very approachable and have always explained the best way forward in plain English, so we have a good understanding of not only what they are doing, but also why they are doing it to help us meet our needs.

Our first project with E247 was to redesign our website, as it had become tired and didn't allow us to update it like we wanted to. We also needed to improve the user experience and the functionality of the site. Through face to face meetings and demonstrations, we worked with them to agree the concept, which was then swiftly programmed and up and running.

I have no hesitation in recommending E247 to anyone else, as their customer service and implementation of solutions has been excellent."

The work they have undertaken for us has changed some of our fundamental working methods beyond recognition.
